(December 7, 2018 – Toronto, ON) – 18 year-old singer-songwriter Grace Lachance debuts the video for “No Sound”, the first single off her debut EP to be released February 8th, 2019. The track is available to stream and purchase as of today HERE.

The talented up-and-coming artist’s voice and songwriting ability evokes a sense of maturity beyond her years. Brimming with raw talent, Grace began performing at a very young age for captivated audiences around the city of Ottawa and her hometown of Stittsville, Ontario. At only age 15, Grace was named the winner of the 2015 She’s The One contest at Ottawa Bluesfest.

In 2016, her emotive cover of Kodaline's "All I Want" earned Grace the opportunity to team up with Universal Music Canada to release her debut single. “Anymore” attracted attention from the Canadian radio industry, when she received the BellMedia Rising Star award and earned two #1 titles on AC Radio, taking the coveted spot for most added song and FUTURES spot.

After promoting and touring on her breakthrough radio success, Grace went back to work crafting a new vision. Lachance worked with different writing teams while developing her sound but established an unbreakable bond with New York City based producer Julie Kathryn, aka I Am Snow Angel. “No Sound” has dark overtones, introspective lyrics, pulsing synths and engaging vocal harmonies and features an appearance from rapper G.Grand. Rounding out the production team was Toronto-based pop singer Kayla Diamond who co-wrote the song. The single is a brilliant example of the “Women in Music” movement as three female artists poured out their energy and soul to construct “No Sound”.

Grace's style is multifaceted, combining elements of pop and alternative, with nods to prolific songwriters like Ed Sheeran, plus a hint of roots to create a sound that's all her own. Drawing inspiration from her daily life, Grace is consistently expanding her repertoire of relatable songs. Show dates will be announced when available.
