Springboard For Range Of Artists Including, METZ, The Elwins and Doldrums

(July 8, 2019 - Toronto, ON) Toronto-based record label and management company, We Are Busy Bodies, is rebranding to include music and entertainment consultancy services. Founded in 2005 by Eric Warner, the company has expanded to offer a range of valuable services including brand strategy, event management, entertainment planning and grant writing.

"I'm excited to embark on this new phase of We Are Busy Bodies," says Warner. "Being involved in music and entertainment has been a life-long dream that started at an early age. Being able to champion independent artists across genres and build solid industry relationships has always been of utmost important to me."

We Are Busy Bodies started as an extension of a concert promotion business founded by Warner when he was just 15 years old, evolving to include music management and consulting. A 20-year entertainment marketing professional, Eric founded music and arts festival Over The Top and has worked through all aspects of the music industry, beginning as a teenage fanzine writer and working through roles including publicist, A&R manager, and concert promoter. During his career he has been involved in the development and seamless execution of thousands of entertainment events and curated programs for a range of stakeholders, including Pepsi and Nike.

The label side of the company has released over 50 albums and has acted as an incubator and springboard for an eclectic range of artists including METZ, The Elwins, Doldrums, Julie Doiron & The Wrong Guys, Cuff The Duke, The Meligrove Band, Young Governor, Limblifter, The Age of Electric, Gary Wilson, as well as international talent from Australia and Japan.

2020 will see a vinyl reissue from management clients, Limblifter and the seminal Bellaclava album which spawned huge radio hits, "Ariel vs. Lotus" and "Wake Up to the Sun" with a slate of other releases to follow. We

Are Busy Bodies management roster includes The Elwins, Close Talker, Limblifter and most recently, Wide Mouth Mason. More announcements will be made regarding upcoming projects and initiatives in the coming weeks.
